Apollo BGS Hospitals announces 24x7 free ambulance service

By dialling 1066, patients can receive emergency care within the 'golden hour' in city limits

Mysuru, Nov. 27 - Apollo BGS Hospitals yesterday announced the launch of free ambulance services for emergencies within the city limits of Mysuru.

The free ambulance service would ensure that the family or friends do not need to waste time looking for an ambulance in case of any emergency and simply dial 1066 to access Apollo Hospitals' Dedicated Emergency Response System (ERS).

An advanced GPRS-enabled ambulance would be immediately dispatched along with trained paramedics equipped with necessary critical care equipment. Time is a critical factor in an emergency and the 24x7 ERS would help ensure that medical aid and support can be easily accessed during the 'golden hour' helping to prevent death and disability.

"With this initiative we want to ensure that nothing should stand between a patient facing an emergency and timely treatment. We hope that this facility will help patients' access treatment within the golden hour and save many lives," said an Apollo Hospital representative.

"During transfer to the hospital, the patient's vitals would be monitored and a two-way communication between the ambulance and the hospital would help to ensure a thorough update on the patient's condition. This method will help the hospital staff prepare to receive the patient and begin treatment with no delays, and prepare concerned departments and facilities such as the Cath Lab, Operating Theatre and ICUs to give the required medical aid to the patient,"therepresentative added.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

In common perception, choosing is understood as an act of picking one thing over another. For example, you are hungry and you have mangoes, bananas, oranges, guavas…kept in front of you and you pick one of these according to your taste and need. You think you have apparently made a choice. Spiritually, choosing goes much beyond appearance. Where there are no alternatives available in your consciousness real choosing happens there. That's the field of values, virtues, will and humility... Are these all not alternatives? No, these are not, as by choosing any of these, all others are also chosen automatically. Choose one and manifest it, stay awake in it through your behaviour and you find that all others also begin to manifest spontaneously. The higher you go in consciousness, the clearer it keeps becoming that... You may have often heard the saying 'all great men think alike'. It is the aforesaid singular reality beneath, which make people deduce this oneness from their independent and individual observations while they move in higher realms of rarefied thoughts.

But, how to convey it through words in every situation? For example, it is commonly perceivable to all of us that all words have myriad meanings in different contexts. But, even in the same context, one can see one word carrying many meanings... Even what we commonly term as synonyms, if we look closely and trace their etymological roots, we find that all the names indicate a specific quality. Meditating over it one may wonder, what is the reality of that thing, which no word is capable of conveying or receiving as it really is? The stage at which difference and unity both cease to create a difference that is the field where real choices are made. — Nandkishore Tiwari in Deccan Herald

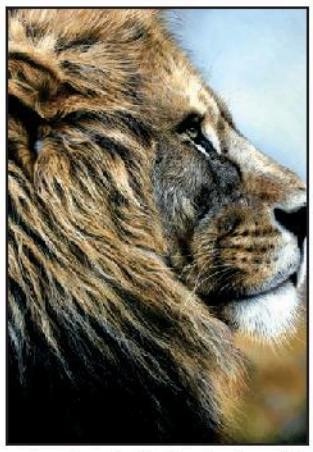
Realistic big cat paintings of Julie Rhodes



London: Julie Rhodes is a UK-based artist who specialises in photo-like hyperrealistic paintings of wildlife, particularly big cats like lions and tigers.

One would be mistaking Julie Rhodes' paintings for photographs, as the differences are very hard to spot for the untrained eye. From her subjects' intricate fur patterns, to the perfect coloring of the cats' thick coats and the reflections in their eyes, these paintings are almost perfect. A professional artist with over 20 years of experience, Rhodes specialises mainly in paintings of big cats (lions, tigers, and leopards) but doesn't shy away from portraying other animals as well, like elephants and zebras. Julie's original paintings sell for 1,000 pounds, while prints sell for anywhere between 25 pounds and 40 pounds.

Siblings who look older than their parents

Jharkhand: Keshav and Anjali Kumar, two young siblings from Jharkhand,suffer from two rare conditions known as Cutis Laxa and Progeria, which make them look incredibly old for their age.

The Indian brother and sister originally made news headlines as the "Benjamin Button siblings" in 2016. Anjali was 7 at the time and her younger brother was only 18-months-old, but they both already looked like octogenarians. Not only was their skin unusually wrinkly and saggy, they both suffered from joint pain associated with old age. Keshav and Anjali Kumar were diagnosed with progeria and cutis laxa, two exceptionally rare conditions that are, unfortunately, incurable.

Will VTU show some concern for students?

Sir,

I am writing this as an aggrieved senior citizen on an extremely difficult experience with Visvesvaraya Technological University (VTU), Belagavi, on a routine application process.

My daughter, currently residing in the US and an old student of a VTU-affiliated College, had applied for official grade sheet transcripts from VTU to pursue her Master's studies (a common admission requirement).

Since there has been no update from weeks, well beyond their slated timelines, she sought my help in reaching out to them. My efforts to reach out to them on all possible channels have been extremely frustrating and without success.

Despite having 200-plus Colleges affiliated to it, the support system offered is shockingly poor to say the least. None of the support numbers mentioned on their website are ever answered, with some of them being invalid!

Not even one of the many mails sent to them have been even acknowledged. Despite my 65-plus age and in these pandemic times, I am even willing to travel all the way to Belagavi to collect these transcripts. However, there is no one to communicate if this option is available given the current pandemic situation.

How can such a prominent University have such shockingly poor systems, despite the hefty fee collected for such documents? Why can't a basic application tracking system be made available for benefit of students, which even the most basic websites have today?

Given the importance of submitting these documents on time, the incompetence of VTU is not only inconveniencing the students (and parents alike in my case), but also jeopardising their careers. Will the authorities concerned please wake up?

ORGAN DONATION
National organ donation day is observed on 27th November every year. This is to bring awareness to general public about the importance of organ donation and to recognise the gesture of past organ donors and their families. Organ transplant is the best treatment for patients having terminal organ failure, be it the kidneys, liver, lungs, heart, pancreas and/or intestine. For transplant to happen, we need organ donors. Live donors and decreased donors are the two type of donors. Live donors can donate one of their kidneys or part of their liver. But deceased donors can donate heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, intestine, pancreas, and more. Deceased donors can also donate tissues like skin, cornea and bone helping burn and blind patients. This ensures GIFT of life to at least 8-10 patients. Deceased donation can happen only in the scenario of BRAIN DEATH. At this time, death is certain but heart beats to keep the blood circulation going thereby ensuring vitality of organs and allowing time for harvesting and transplant. One can pledge to be an organ donor if one ends up in a brain death scenario. Make sure your family is aware of your intention as their consent is also required. Pledge to donate your organs to save patients lives. Do not burn or bury.

Woman, male friend tied to pole and assaulted

Estranged husband held, his brother absconding; Women's Commission seeks report

Nanjangud, Nov. 27 (BCT)- In an inhumane incident, a married woman and her male friend were tied to a pole and subjected to public humiliation and were assaulted by her husband and his brother at Nanjangud last evening. They were accused of having an illicit relationship.

What is shocking is that the villagers were mute spectators to the brutal act. They were finally rescued by the Kavalande Police who have arrested the woman's husband while his brother is on the run.

The incident was reported from Goodi near Hemmaragala village in Nanjangud taluk.

The video of the assault went viral with villagers standing around the poles to which the woman and her friend were tied up. The Nanjangud Police said that the victim (identity concealed to protect the woman's honour) had blamed her estranged husband Ravi and her brother-in-law Chandru for the incident.

The woman was living separately from her husband for the last five years and the couple had three children. While Ravi was taking care of two children, the woman was bringing up one little child. She used to work in coffee estates in Kodagu for a living.

The woman had returned to her home in the village a week back and her male friend, a resident of Nerale village in Nanjangud, to whom she was introduced to in the coffee plantation, came to her house last night. Observing this, Ravi suspected his estranged wife and locked the doors of the woman's house.

He later called his brother Chandru to the spot and both dragged the woman and her friend out of the house and tied both of them to the pole.

The woman was wailing and pleading with the public to untie and save her. In full public view, the woman and her friend were assaulted. Some even filmed the act and released it on social media.

In her complaint, the woman has stated that after some hours of the assault, some of the village elders intervened and informed the villagers of the woman's friend at Nerale. Later they were released and even the Police arrived at the scene.

The woman told the Police that she met the man in one of the coffee estates in Kodagu and as he hailed from nearby Nerale, she had invited him for a cup of coffee. The woman denied that she was having a relationship with the youth and she was victimised by her suspicious estranged husband.

Her husband Ravi has been arrested now and the search is on for his brother Chandru. The State Women's Commission has sought a report from the Mysuru Superintendent of Police (SP).

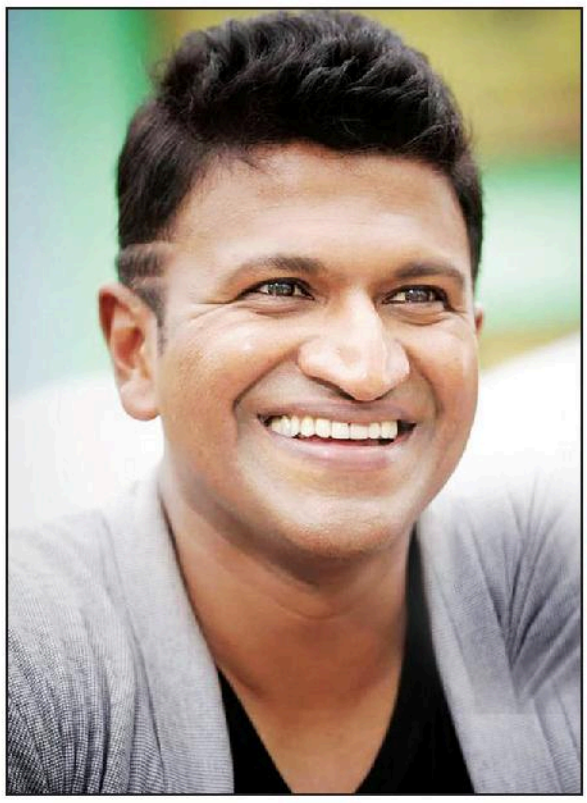
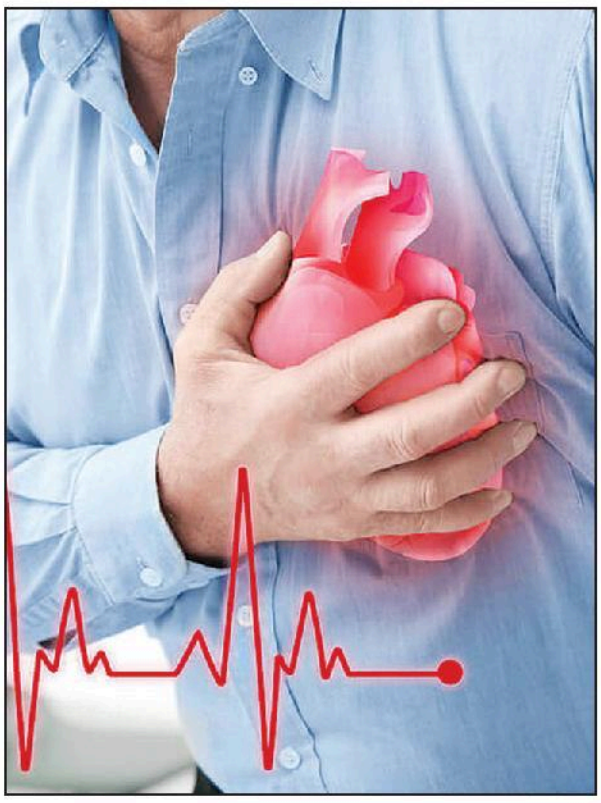
Heart Troubles





Puneeth Rajkumar's untimely death due to a heart attack on October 29 was a shocker because of his age, just 46 years old and superior fitness.

Now, his death due to a heart attack has got my heart racing with anxiety and Madhuri Dixit has ensnared my mind. Why?

Because when my father had a pacemaker inserted in his chest — a pacemaker is a device that gives out mild electric charge to maintain a steady heartbeat — I had joked, saying, "Congratulations, you got a 'UPS' for your heart."

I had also mockingly sung "Dhak Dhak Karne Laga," a Madhuri Dixit song, along with her famous chest thrusting move when he was rolled back after the surgery. Then my father reminded me with a crooked smile, "My heart problem is genetic" and added, "Your time too may come." That shut me up and I forgot about it until Puneeth's death.

Now panic has set in and in my mind's eye, I see Madhuri thrustingly reminding me of my father's warning, "My time is coming."

My fear is legitimate because my family has a history of heart attacks — I've lost two uncles and a younger cousin to heart disease. Also, these days it seems to be affecting everyone — women, young men, fit men, vegetarians, non-vegetarians, teetotallers, yoga gurus, athletes — so everyone has a reason to worry about their heart health.

No wonder there was a rush at hospitals for ECG (Electrocardiogram) and Treadmill tests the day after Puneeth's death. I'm not ashamed to admit, I was one among them.

I did it because, for far too long, I have taken my health for granted. I've been confident about my health based on the yardstick that as long as I can climb Chamundi Hill four times a week without huffing, puffing or stopping, I'm ok.

Also, I've been complacent about health check-ups as I had misguided confidence in my own in-house heart test — if I can climb four flights of stairs or 60 steps under a minute and can do 40 push-ups straight, I'm ok because the much respected Harvard Medical Journal says these two physical activities are indicators of good heart health. But...

When a fit Puneeth, the ambassador of the 'Prevent Premature Heart Attack' initiative of Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences, can have a heart attack, we have a reason to worry and get a proper medical check-up.

And so, a day after Puneeth's death, I visited Gopala Gowda Shanthaveri Memorial Hospital for my ECG and Treadmill test. My test went off well. And as I thanked my doctor and asked him, "So all ok doctor?" he replied, "Yes, all's well, but one never knows." That left me feeling hopeless that fitness doesn't matter.

But the good doctor added, saying, "Lead a balanced life, be it food, work, stress, emotions, don't overindulge in any of it." Then he said something else that most doctors have been saying for a while now, which is heart problem is a lifestyle disease, in most cases.

The doctors are right. While some are genetically predisposed to heart issues, many more suffer it due to lifestyle choices and there is no doubt that prosperity has put our heart health at risk.

As our wallets have gotten thicker, so have our arteries. Prosperity has made us overindulge, be it food or any other form of consumerism. And this indulgent lifestyle has taken a toll, especially on middle-aged Indians.

A decade ago, a heart surgery would evoke shock and sympathy. Today heart disease-related phrases, acronyms and words like Coronary disease, ECG, Stent, Angiogram, CT Angio, TMT are all part of casual urban conversation.

Earlier, cardiac arrest, cholesterol, blood pressure etc., were topics discussed by older people, but today you hear these topics discussed among men in their mid 30s! I recently listened to a group of young men discussing a treatment called EECP (Enhanced External Counterpulsation), a mechanical form of treatment for angina (chest pain) as a preventive measure for artery-clogging !

No one ever imagined young men discussing which brand of "blood thinner" is better or how many milligrams of "Roseday" is best to control cholesterol, but these conversations are becoming passe. It's also an indicator of how unhealthy we are becoming as a society.

Sadly it doesn't scare us enough to make a lifestyle change. I fear Puneeth's death will encourage cynical people to say, "If a fit Puneeth can die of a heart attack, then why should we bother exercising" and give up on being healthy, leaving life in the hands of fate and destiny.

The frequency of heart attack cases around us nowadays has left me worrying and preparing. I'm worried if I'll be able to figure out is it a heart attack or a gastric problem, or if the pain in my left arm is a heart issue or just a muscle pain.

I'm prepared for the "heart event" by keeping a few Sorbitrate tablets on me at all times, so I can place this tablet under my tongue in case of an "occurrence" till I get to the hospital. I've also bought an Apple iWatch that supposedly can take an ECG and if it's off the mark, the iWatch will call the doctor !

It's obvious I'm paranoid, and that itself could induce a heart attack. I know that things can go wrong no matter how prepared one is, but why must one give up so easily on health and leave it to fate and destiny?

While I worried about my heart's genetic flaw, I figured it's not all bad. I could use my family history of heart disease to my advantage to get my family or friends to stop arguing and fulfil my demands. All I have to do is,every time they raise their voice, I have to grab my chest, heave a few times and, if possible, induce some sweat. This act will bring peace and my demands will be met.

But on the flip side, I hope karma doesn't get to me and I suffer a real heart attack while playing dumb charades because my friends and family will keep guessing what I'm trying to act out instead of rushing me to the hospital !

While Puneeth's death has shaken me enough to worry about my own heart, I also feel his loss. Like most Kannadigas in their 40s, I grew up watching Master Lohith, the child actor. Back then, Puneeth was called Master Lohith. And Master Lohith sang the first Kannada movie song I learnt. It was a song titled "Baana Daariyalli..." I will always associate this song with Puneeth and it's poetic now with Puneeth's passing away. The song goes like this ...

Baana Daariyalli Soorya Jari Hoda
(On the path towards the sky, the sun slide down)
Chandra Mele Banda
(and the Moon came up)
Minugu Taare Anda, Nodu Entha Chenda
(then there were beautiful Twinkling stars, Oh! see how beautiful they are)
Raatriyaytu Malagu Nanna Putta Kanda, Nanna Putta Kanda
(But now it's night and it's time so sleep my little child, my little child)

Puneeth has left us to sleep, leaving many to weep and some like me too worried to sleep. Let's hope his death has brought awareness about India's biggest killer 'heart disease' and will make us re-look at our lifestyle and life itself.

PM Modi holds meet on COVID variant Omicron

Karnataka to strictly follow 'Test-Track Treat-Vaccinate' principle

New Delhi, Nov. 27 (Agencies)- Prime Minister Narendra Modi met top officials this morning via video-conferencing to review the COVID-19 and vaccination situation in the country.

Cabinet Secretary Rajiv Gauba, P.K. Mishra, Principal Secretary to the Prime Minister, Health Secretary Rajesh Bhushan and Dr. V.K. Paul, the chief of the country's COVID Task Force, were at the meeting.

PM Modi chairing a meeting on COVID-19 situation and vaccination with top officials, through video-conferencing, in New Delhi this morning.

The meeting comes amid concern over the B.1.1.529 strain of the Coronavirus, renamed Omicron by the World Health Organisation (WHO) and has been red flagged for a number of mutations that might make it more resistant to vaccines, increase transmissibility and lead to more severe symptoms.

The variant, first detected in South Africa this week, and since reported from Botswana, Hong Kong, Israel and Belgium, is believed to have 50 mutations, including over 30 on spike protein and 10 on receptor binding domain. WHO has tagged Omicron as a 'variant of concern', which puts it alongside the globally-dominant Delta, plus its weaker rivals Alpha, Beta and Gamma.

India has called for rigorous screening of passengers from South Africa, Botswana, and Hong Kong. Meanwhile, the United Kingdom, Singapore and Israel have stopped flights from South Africa, Botswana and four other African nations. Germany and Italy have also banned most travel from South Africa.

The US has also imposed a travel ban on seven southern African countries. Namibia, Eswatini, Lesotho, Malawi, and Mozambique are on the list, as are South Africa and Botswana.

The Karnataka Government issued an order last evening stating that international arrivals from African countries will need to undergo screening and testing. It has instructed District Administrations to strictly adhere to the overarching 'Test-Track Treat-Vaccinate' principle to prevent the possible spread. In a circular issued in Bengaluru, T.K. Anil Kumar, Principal Secretary (Health and Family Welfare), stated that rigorous monitoring was needed in the matter. He also noted that routine sentinel surveillance and surge surveillance, and timely sending of RT-PCR positive samples to designated INSACOG Genome Sequencing Laboratories (IGSLs) also must be done.

Gang robs pigmy collectors

The modus operandi of the accused is to waylay the pigmy collectors who had finished the day's collection. On Nov. 23 at around 7.30 pm they targeted Ravi at Amba Bhavani Temple near N.R. Mohalla. His scooter was stopped by the five men who took away Rs. 10,000 from him.

As Ravi was an easy target, the dacoits decided to target more pigmy collectors and the very next day (Nov. 24), they robbed Swamy at Satagalli Extension and snatched Rs. 12,000 from their possession. In his Police complaint, Swamy stated that he and his friend were coming after their routine collection when five men in two scooters waylaid them and robbed the money after threatening. This crime had occurred at 2.30 pm.

The same day, criminals targeted Nagesh, another pigmy collector who was doing his job at Haleem Nagar. Nagesh had complained to the Police that he was walking in Haleem Nagar when one person dashed against him. While Nagesh tripped and fell, the other four dacoits surrounded him and snatched Rs. 20,000 and a mobile phone.

On Nov. 25, another pigmy collector Ganesh was robbed on a road near Udayagiri. As Ganesh was walking to finish his day's collection deadline, the five persons blocked his way and threatened him with dire consequences if money was not handed over to them. Fearing consequences, Ganesh handed over Rs. 10,000 to the criminals.

The series of dacoits targeting pigmy collectors had become a headache to the Police and DCP (Crime and Traffic) Geetha Prasanna and ACP M.N. Shashidhar had formed a team led by Udayagiri Inspector P.K. Raju who successfully arrested the accused and recovered cash and valuables from them.

Rs. 43,500 cash, one mobile phone, two two-wheelers used in the crime all worth Rs. 2 lakh have been recovered.

With their arrest, the Police have solved four dacoity cases — two each in Udayagiri and Narasimharaja Police limits.

City Police Commissioner Dr. Chandragupta has lauded the efforts of the team involved in the operation.

Columnist Gubbigoodu Ramesh's book 'Dada Serada Dhaavantagalu' released

Mysuru, Nov.27 (MK&DM)- Renowned Film Director Nagathihalli Chandrashekar released noted columnist Gubbigoodu Ramesh's work titled 'Dada Serada Dhaavantagalu,' a collection of the author's articles, at a programme organised under the joint aegis of Vismaya Book House and Sahitya Loka, at RamaGovinda Rangamandira in Ramakrishnanagar here on Thursday.

Speaking on the occasion, Nagathihalli Chandrashekar said that it is challenging to write columns at a time when curiosity on seeking freshness is fast evaporating. Noting that a book is always like a lit lamp, he said that the author Gubbigoodu Ramesh, who is also a member of Kannada Development Authority, has done an excellent job in bringing out this book, which is a collection of his column writings.

Pointing out that a columnist must be always alert and keep informed about the latest developments around the world, he said that while it is pertinent to seek freshness, at the same time, it is also important for a columnist to learn the art of transforming the old into new.

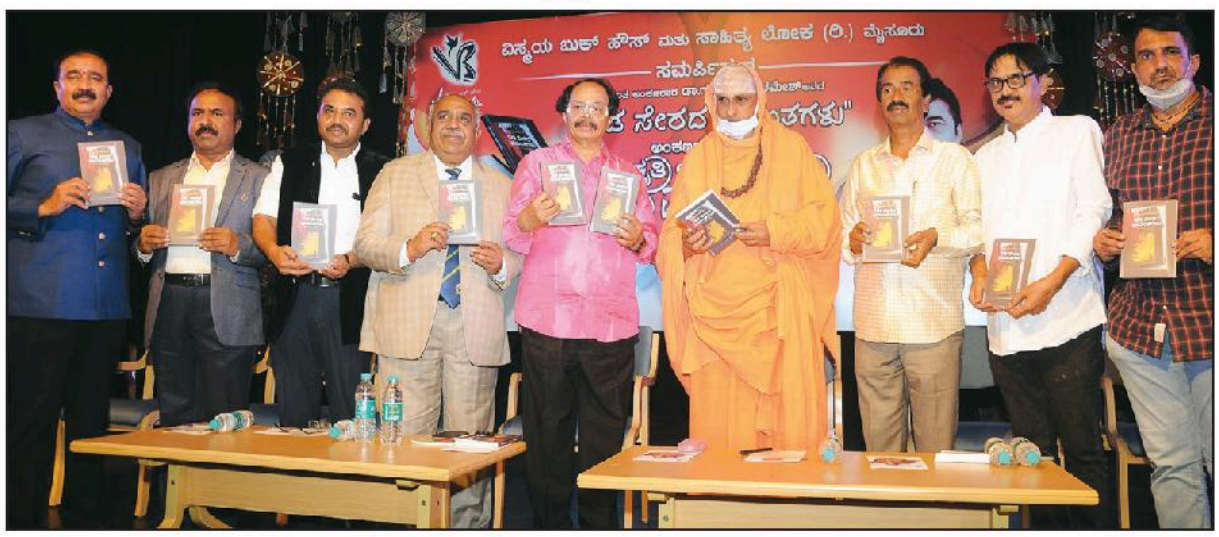
Maintaining that though the population of Kannadigas is increasing, the number of Kannada readers is decreasing by the day, he said that this is an alarming trend and Kannadigas should wake up to the realities of life which revolves around our land, language and culture.

Regretting that the cause of Kannada is getting weaker due to dwindling number of Kannada readers, Nagathihalli Chandrashekar reiterated that books are like earthen lamps that provide light and enlightenment and it is important for Kannadigas to develop a liking for reading books.

University of Mysore Vice-Chancellor Prof. G. Hemantha Kumar, in his address, said that more than 1.5 lakh people read Guddigoodu Ramesh's columns that appear in the Kannada daily Mysuru Mithra, the sister concern of Star of Mysore. The VC hoped that Ramesh would contribute more to Kannada literature.

Author Gubbigoodu Ramesh, who also spoke, said that his columns focused more on contemporary topics, situations and incidents. Asserting that his columns are aimed at improving human bonding, he recalled his experiences with his readers as a columnist.

Suttur Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji inaugurated 'Sahitya Loka' cultural organisation on the occasion. Former MLA Vasu, Sahitya Loka Cultural Organisation President Dr. Y.D. Rajanna, Prakash Chikkapalya of Vismaya Book House, A.G. Devaraj, LIC P. Chandrashekar and others were present.



Film Director Nagathihalli Chandrashekar and Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji seen releasing the book 'Dada Serada Dhaavantagalu' in city on Thursday along with Mysore University VC Prof. G. Hemantha Kumar, ex-MLA Vasu, author Gubbigoodu Ramesh, Dr. Y.D. Rajanna, Prakash Chikkapalya of Vismaya Book House, A.G. Devaraj and LIC P. Chandrashekar.

Pronunciation: ROY-ster.
Meaning: Roister means "to engage in noisy partying or celebration."
Origin: Roister is related to French ruste, meaning "rude" or "rough." That word comes from the fairly neutral Latin rusticus, meaning "rural." Originally, the English verb was simply roist, and one who roisted was a roister. Those words are no longer used; instead, we have the verb roister, and the corresponding noun roisterer.
Example: "Of course, my student life wasn't all angst and regret. I spent much of my time falling in and out of love and roistering around the world of Cambridge theatre." — Joan Bakewell

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Haste makes waste

Meaning: The expression 'Haste Makes Waste' to indicate that rushing can lead to costly mistakes.
Origin: The idea that haste is counterproductive originated in antiquity and is first seen in print in the apocryphal Book of Wisdom, c. 190 BCE: "There is one that toilet and laboureth, and maketh haste, and is so much the more behind."
Example: "I'm always careful with my work. After all, haste makes waste."
